

A. View of the northeastern part of the island from Miseryfjell.

Showing fairly level country with many lakes and terminating seawards mostly in abrupt cliffs. The conspicuous promontory is Kapp Forsberg, and the stack south of it is the Engelske Staur (English Stack). The wireless station, mine, and camp of Tunheim are seen in the middle. The headland to the right is Kapp Nordenskiöld.

A. Koller phot. 31/s 1923.

B. The western part of Bear Island seen from Gygreurda.

Royevatnet, and surface covered with blocks of Culm sandstone are seen in the foreground.

A. Koller phot. 13/s 1923.